

WORSE PLACES THAN SUMMER TIME"

Are Staying in Town This Year

ANYWHERE ON THE EAST SIDE.

"It's dandy in the summertime. It's better being hot than being cold anyway, and when the ice-man comes through our street you can always grab a hunk."

IN CHINATOWN.

"Summer's all right. It means ice cream sodas. Here, give me that spoon. It's my turn now."

"It's all right if a feller don't wear too many clothes."

"And they said last summer the new dances were going out. You wouldn't think it to look at the roofs. A little strenuous? Well, perhaps it is, my dear, for one of your weight, but at least you can enjoy watching the professionals in the spotlight dance."

Courtesy of the Waldorf Astoria.

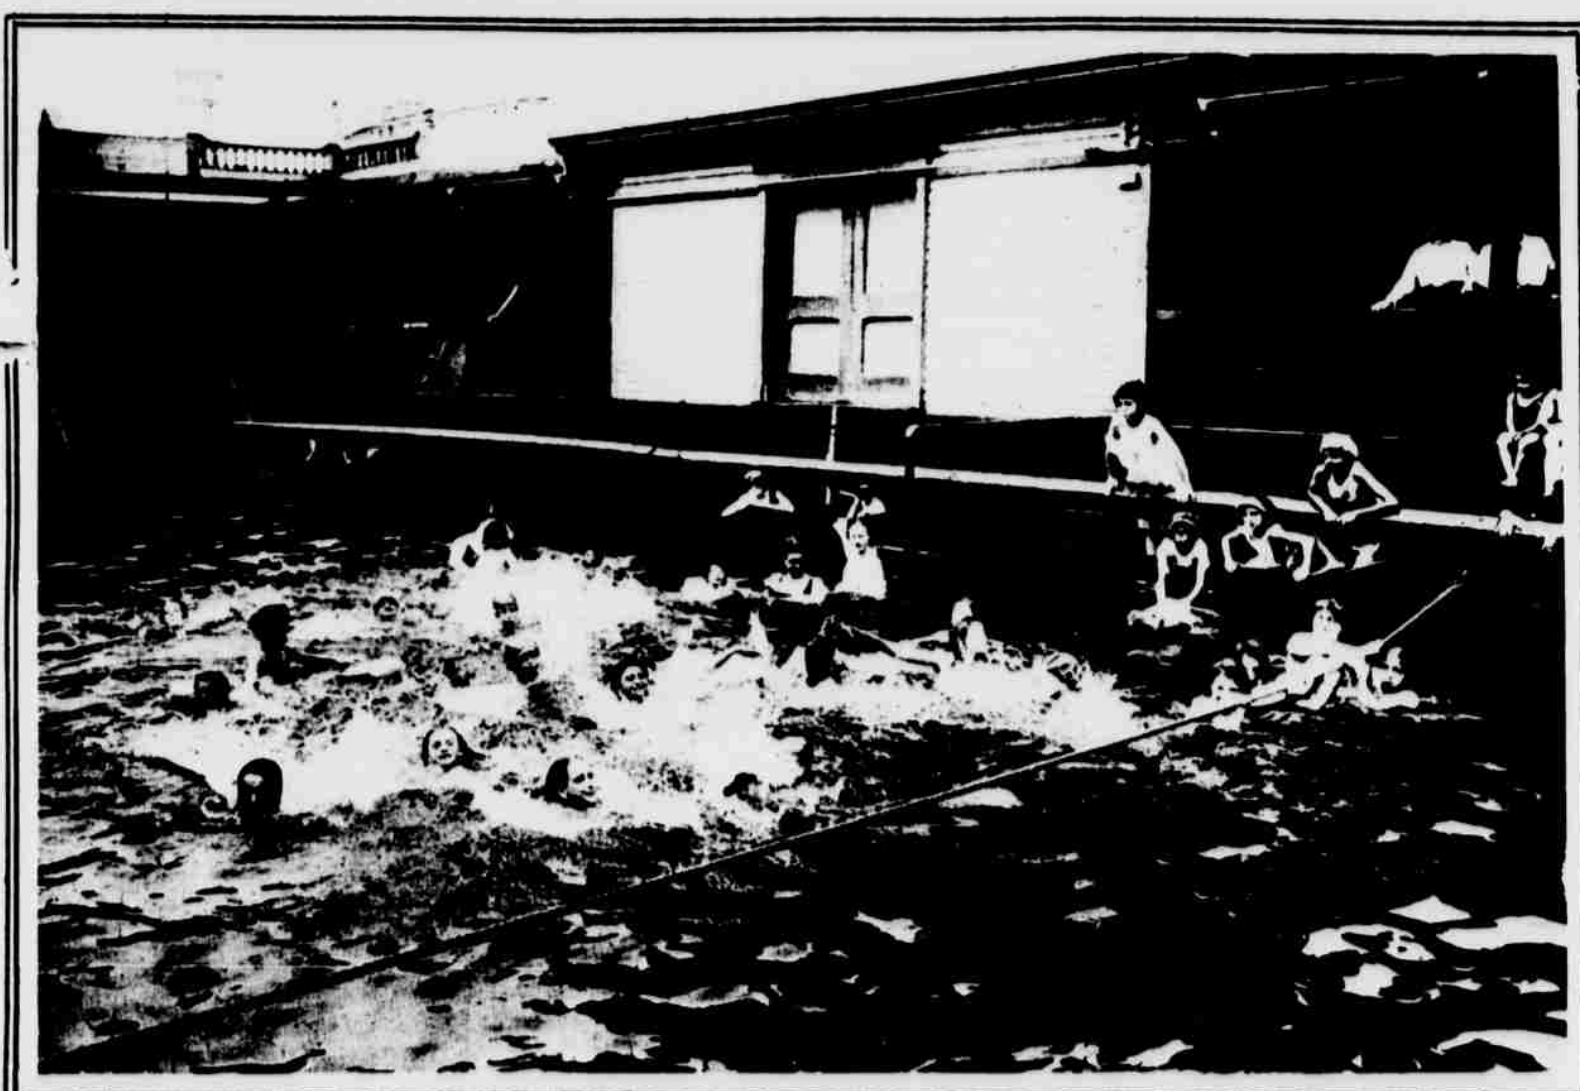

"When you've got an apple-taffy you don't think about the heat."

AT CONEY ISLAND.

"My notion, with Coney open wide, and our steadies by our side, the ocean."

Ed by Brown Brown about the knowledge of the subjects.

AT THE PUBLIC BATHS AT THE BATTERY.

"Talk about fun. You don't need any fancy bathing suit, and you can just splash for hours and it don't cost you a cent."